Human Security and Global Cooperation Program

Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE) operates a growing number of crosssectoral initiatives that cut across its three programmatic pillars and build on the expertise and strong networks developed in these areas. Prominent examples are JCIE's work through the Friends of the Global Fund, Japan (FGFJ), and JCIE's exploration of ways to improve the human security of people in developing countries, both of which combine policy analysis, international dialogue among political leaders, and civil society activities. By taking advantage of the interconnections and synergies among its activities with diverse sectors of society, JCIE can more effectively respond to today's complex global issues.

Global ThinkNet Program

Policy Research & Dialogue

JCIE engages in policy-oriented study and dialogue projects on cutting-edge issues in international relations. These projects, undertaken by a core group of in-house researchers in collaboration with outside experts and research institutions from around the world, contribute to the following goals:

- promoting substantive analysis and discussion of critical policy issues facing the US, Japan, Asia Pacific, and the world;
- strengthening regional and global networks of independent policy research institutions and researchers; and
- encouraging the development of promising young intellectual leaders in an effort to foster a "successor" generation of policy thinkers.

CivilNet and Grass Roots Program

Promoting Civil Society

Through its CivilNet activities, JCIE continues its long tradition of leadership in strengthening civil society through exchange, research, and philanthropic facilitation. These activities are carried out with the following aims:

- promoting a vibrant civil society in Japan, Asia Pacific, and worldwide;
- building a collaborative civil society network and promoting greater cooperation on shared global challenges; and

Political Leadership Exchange Program

A major goal of JCIE activities is the promotion of closer working relations between American and Japanese political and opinion leaders. JCIE's nonpartisan political exchange programs provide opportunities for leaders to share views in a frank, off-the-record manner on pressing security, economic, and foreign policy issues.

Earthquake Relief and Recovery Program

JCIE funds are being used to help Japanese non-profit organizations that are not likely to receive sufficient support from government, business, and other sources, but that are tackling issues essential for a sustainable recovery. One aim is to encourage the recipients to strengthen their organizational capacity and become self-sustaining, so some of the funding will be in the form of multi-year grants. Issue areas being prioritized include:

- Rebuilding Community Ties—Strengthening community-based organizations, restoring community members' sense of identity and esteem, preserving community heritage, and reconstituting the formal and informal networks that make a community function are key components of any full recovery from disaster.
- Economic Revitalization—Local economies have been devastated, and there is a pressing need for innovative approaches that will help restart commerce and create jobs. Restoring livelihoods makes communities more vibrant, improves the quality of life, and prevents the hollowing out of communities as unemployed residents relocate for work.
- Supporting Senior Citizens—A disproportionate number of those affected by the disaster are senior citizens. They face special challenges in their recovery, and innovative efforts are needed to better empower them and ensure their physical and mental wellbeing.
